

THE OPERATIONS IN EAST TENNESSEE.
RESIGNATION OF GEN. BURNSIDE.
DETAILS OF HIS RECENT MOVEMENTS.

Official Reports of Gens. Burnside and Rosecrans.

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

CINCINNATI, Friday, Sept. 11, 1863.
Gen. Burnside, upon completing the redemption of East Tennessee by the capture of the Rebel force defending Cumberland Gap, tendered his resignation to the War Department by telegraph. His hearty cooperation with Gen. Rosecrans forbids the presumption that this step originated in any difference as to relative rank and command. It is supposed that he contemplated it for some time in consequence of the constant political perplexities that beset him in the administration of his department, through the reputation of certain of his measures by the Government, but did not take it until he could leave the service without discredit to himself, after expelling the last armed Rebel from his department.

The movement into East Tennessee was made in two columns over two routes. Gen. Burnside, with 13,000 cavalry and mounted infantry, and several batteries, made for Kingston, London, and Knoxville, in forced marches. After occupying the latter place, he pushed northward with a small force to meet the 23d Corps, under Gen. Harshbarger, which, in the mean time, turned Cumberland Gap on the right. By following the route through London and Williamsburg, with it he surrounded and forced the surrender of Gen. Frazer.

The headquarters of the Army of the Cumberland are established at Chattanooga.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 11, 1863.

THE REPORTED SAILING OF AN ENGLISH STEAMER.
It is not true, as stated in a London letter published by one of your correspondents, that one of the Anglo-Rebel rams sailed from England during the last week of August. The Government official dispatches of quite late date as well as newspaper correspondence positively state that all the rams whose departure was threatened were still in the yards where they were built.

TELEGRAMS FROM THE AMOR RIVER TO AMERICA.

Minister Clay writes from St. Petersburg to a gentleman in this city: "They have granted me a telegram line charter, the line to run from the mouth of the Amor River to America. It will unite all the continents and be the great work of the age. It will illustrate my mission to this country."

THE FIVE-TWENTY BONDS.

The issue of five-twenty bonds has been greatly increased during the week, and the facilities at the Treasury are now such that the orders on hand will be soon filled. Over $11,000,000 have been issued during the week. $5,000,000 were put in circulation to-day. Hereafter orders will be promptly attended to.

SALES OF REAL ESTATE IN FLORIDA ANNULLED.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has annulled certain sales of real estate in Florida, made by two of the Direct Tax Commissioners, during the absence of Mr. Stickney, the third Commissioner, and otherwise irregular. Some of this property was bought in by the Commissioners for themselves. This decision of Mr. Lewis will probably be a source of expense to the Florida Commissioners.

THE TAX ON VESSELS.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that all vessels or water-craft, of which the keels, or such parts as are equivalent to a keel, were actually laid at the time of the passage of the act of March 3, 1863, are exempt from the ad valorem duty of two per cent imposed by that act on all vessels hereafter built. The tax of two per cent is to be levied on the hull of the ship, boat, or vessel, in its finished state, including the cook-house, fore-cabin, main-cabin, cabin, and stowage, and the tax is to be assessed upon the entire value of the same, without any deductions on account of duties paid upon any of the materials used in the construction of the vessel. By virtue of section 63, of the act of July 1, 1862, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue prescribes that the duty or tax assessed upon any vessel or craft in its finished state shall be paid by the owner or owners on the 1st, 4th, 11th, 18th, 25th, or 31st day of any month in which it is finished, and if the assessment be made in any one of the days named, the tax shall be payable on the same day; but if the assessment is made on a day prior to any one of the days named, the tax shall be payable on that day of assessment, and if either of the days named should fall on a Sunday the payment shall be made on the day following, and the tax so assessed shall be paid to the Collector of Internal Revenue within the District where the vessel or craft may be at the time of the assessment, and the tax and whatever shall be the expense of levy shall be a lien from the day prescribed for the payment as aforesaid in favor of the United States upon said vessel or craft, and such lien may be enforced by distraint, as provided in the 14th section of the act of July 1, 1862. When a bona fide contract for the construction of a vessel was entered into before the 31st day of March, 1863, the tax of two per cent on such vessel shall be paid by the contractor or purchaser thereof, and not by the builder.

TITLES OF OFFICIALS.

Officials who have been absent upon Summer tours, are returning to the city. Secretary Welles and Chief Clerk Faxon of the Navy Department, and Assistant Attorney-General Coffey, Secretary Usher, and others, have arrived. Assistant Secretary Harrington is expected next week.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Reports of Rebel Movements by Deserters.

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 11, 1863.

From your correspondent T. M. N., with the Army of the Potomac, we learn that deserters who left Fredericksburg on Tuesday last state that the only Rebel infantry there, Hood's Division of Longstreet's Corps, left for Richmond on Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock, with two days' rations. They expected to go to Tennessee. The cavalry brigade of Fitzhugh Lee only remains at Fredericksburg.

From another source we learn that a number of Rebel soldiers have requested their families, resident in counties of Virginia, near Washington, to get new clothes ready, promising speed to call and get them. Still another theory which is held in high quarters is that Lee is sending troops to North Carolina to put down the insurrection there against Jeff. Davis.

Arrest of a Lady on Suspicion as a Spy.

Attack on Brig.-Gen. Bartlett—Gen. Morris—Presentation to Gen. Nichols—Autumn—Weather.

From Our Special Correspondent.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Monday, Sept. 11, 1863.

Miss E. A. Jones, an attractive young lady from Cambridge, Mass., about 20 years of age, who was arrested a few days ago at Beaton Station, on suspicion of being a spy, was yesterday sent to Washington for further examination. Nothing was proved against her. She simply could give no satisfactory reason for being in the army, and contradicted herself somewhat. The lady of Lieut. Leggett of New York, killed recently in a cavalry skirmish, has been sent home for interment.

Vanita Cary, killed last Sunday on a similar occasion, affords another and casuality at this moment of general repose. Last week Brig.-Gen. Bartlett, of the 6th Corps, stationed with his brigade at Northampton, five miles from Washington, was subjected to an attack on a somewhat low believed the story until substantiated.

At night, about thirty Rebel cavalry rode over one of the pickets of the line, rendering it impracticable of giving an alarm, and proceeded boldly toward its head-quarters. They were soon observed, and an alarm was given. The General led his tent to ascertain the cause, and immediately afterward the Rebels rushed toward it to capture the General. He was saved by the timely arrival of his own cavalry, who by the brave fire of the 1st Cavalry, drove them near by, and not having time to dismount and climb, fled thirty shots into the tent and retreated. By good fortune, the absence of the occupant saved his life. A regiment of the 1st Cavalry, under the command of Lieut. Col. Ward, was sent to capture the Rebels, and they were captured as an effect to the Rebel Gen. W. H. F. Lee, now in our hands, and held as a hostage for the safety of Capt. Sawyer and Fern.

Brig.-Gen. Morris, commanding a brigade in the 3d Corps, leaves to-day for New York upon a ten days' leave of absence. Gen. Morris is the son of the co-propietary of The Home Journal. He has won and worn his stars through a series of tremendous fights.

The men and officers of the 1st Division of the 3d Corps intend to present a carriage and horses to their late commander, Gen. Sickles. Major-Gen. Birney and Brig.-Gen. Carr and Ward are appointed a Committee for the purpose.

We have again a change to Autumn weather. Much money has been lately made by sellers of the army in selling soda-water at 10 cents a glass. One man at Washington Junction has received a fine from the Government for selling soda-water at 10 cents a glass.
